

Printer With Document-Triggered Processing

Abstract of the Disclosure

A system and method for a printer that can detect characteristics of a printed document and trigger an action in response, in addition to or instead of the action of printing the document.